WOLF MODELS

Nic Adams is the driving force behind Wolf Models, a relatively new company who are producing an interesting and varied range of quality figures. All the World War II figures are in the popular 1/35th scale to be compatible with the vast range of Armour kits available and the American Civil War and Napoleonic figures are 1/32nd scale which in size is 54mm. The figures have been sculpted by the following talented figure designers, Tony Williams, Rendall Patton, Steve Harrison and Alex Williams.

The majority of figures in this catalogue are designed so that they can stand alone in a showcase, but will also form into small vignettes or larger dioramas. Due to the increasing quality of resin casting, future kits will most probably all be in this medium although small parts and weapons will continue to be produced in metal.

Future plans include a series of 20th century British Empire figures as well as continuing with the present World War II, American Civil War and Napoleonic periods.
